MRS. DRAKE FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Woman Charges Marion Contractor Spent Money Foolishly.

Gross neglect and extreme cruelty are charged by Mrs. Ota R. Drake in a divorce petition against James Drake, Marion contractor filed yesterday afternoon in common pleas court.

Drake spent his money recklessly and foolishly, depriving her of comforts of life which she otherwise might have had, she asserts. To maintain herself and her home and luxuries, she worked at the silk mills, spending part of this income to provide herself a home at 302 north Prospect street, she states.

He is a contractor and earns a "good salary," according to the petition. While she wanted to build up a competency for herself and husband, he was disposed to spend his money being a "good fellow" with his friends, she asserts. She charges him with intemperance. The law firm of Meuser, Young, Meuser & Wiant represents Mrs. Drake.

File Answers. Ruth Merrill and F. W. Sanders filed answers in common pleas court yesterday in the divorce suit of Harry Novak against F. W. Sanders and others. The answering defendants aver that the negligence and carelessness of Russell Hoff was responsible for the three-car collision south of Marion last June 21. Both deny statements of the petition charging them with carelessness and negligence. The law firm of Guthrie, Strelitz & Guthrie is counsel for the answering defendants.

Sues on Mortgage. Judgment for $1,823.10, foreclosure of a mortgage on 50 acres in Richland township and a marshalling of liens are asked in an action filed against John L. Fisher and others in common pleas court yesterday by the Virginia Stock Land bank. The law firm of Clark & Arter represents the bank.

Judgment Confessed. Judgment for $309.20 has been confessed and a jury trial waived in the action of Beattie M. Seltzer, administratrix of the estate of Henry Berlinger, against George H. Berlinger and others.

With Kettering at Breakfast
Second 25 Years Up at Dearborn
An Aerial Giant

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

DETROIT, March 12.—So many men and things to see in Detroit that it is hard to find even 20 minutes to write about it, and get away to New York with Walter Chrysler on the "Detroit" at 7 in the evening.

Breakfast at 7:30 with Charles F. Kettering, chief engineer of General Motors at the Book-Cadillac hotel, recently taken over by Ralph Hille, who affects hotels and their activity as a galvanic battery affects a sleepy town.

You couldn't put in this column half the things worth while that C. F. Kettering mentions casually.

The automobile business is only starting. Every important industry makes its greatest progress in the second 25 years of its existence. That is true of the telephone, with its great success achieved in the last 15 years, and true of electric light. It will prove true of the automobile industry, which is just starting its second 25-year run.

NEXT, A FAST RUN from Detroit to the Ford plant at Dearborn in a Hudson automobile, with a dictating machine built into the rear seat cushion. A letter dictated at 50 miles an hour gave a perfect record. You can use every minute in your car writing letters or editorials or columns like this.

Henry Ford is found in the south end of his laboratory. He assures you: "No, I don't work hard, I just work around." Somebody else tells you that he has been working recently from 7 in the morning until late.

First, luncheon in the Ford dining room with Henry Ford, and Mr. Sorenson, who has plenty of driving power; Mr. Cameron, who thinks and writes; Mr. Cowling, general sales manager, who has just come back from flying above the fighting region in China; and R. C. "Babe" Miller, so called because he is six feet and a half tall.

He used to sell American steam engines and threshing machines in the Argentine. He and Henry Ford discussed every engine ever made, since the first one operated in the Scorpion at Alexandria, before the birth of Christ.

Mr. Ford hasn't got that one, but a sample of almost every other.

FOR LUNCHEON at least 11 kinds of bread, including one made of any bread, and one stuffed with raisins from California. Mr. Ford tries everything. Three kinds of pie to choose from, all these the same as the workers have in a larger dining room.

Mr. Ford tells what he thinks about conditions and what the trouble is, in a few words, but on some things he doesn't care to be quoted.

NEXT AN EXAMINATION with Mr. Ford alone of the new Ford models, that four and the eight cylinder. Soon you will know all about them.

Near the big door leading from the laboratory Mr. Ford says: "Give me one of those," takes the wheel of one of his new eight-cylinder cars, and drives you down to see the new big Ford airplane.

On the way he takes you over a dirt road purposely built rough for experiment, says: "I won't frighten you; I just want to show you," and runs you over that rough road of the rolling stones and sand, about seventy miles an hour.

THE BIG AIRPLANE. Its monoplane of metal, spreading more than half the length of a New York City block, is a giant to satisfy any imagination, and it will carry 40 passengers. The British recently finished their biggest plane, to carry 38 passengers from London to South Africa.

Three Hispano engines will run this air giant, which can draw in its landing legs and wheels to prevent air resistance.

Two engines built into the wing on each side of the fuselage are of 650 horsepower each. On top, towering above the plane, is an 18-cylinder engine of 1,150 horsepower, fastened throughout every part of the structure as the roots of a tree fasten it to the ground. The rear end of the engine tapers to a sharp point, to let the wind slip away. That idea is borrowed from a falling rain drop, which, according to German scientists, offers the minimum of resistance to the air, being big at the falling end and pointed at the upper end.

Harry Russell, young pilot, who will soon take this air giant off the earth, "simply can't wait."

It's Zero hour! the signal flashes

...and the great Red Fleet rolls out with its daily cargo of Sohio products for all Ohio

THE very ground under foot trembles as the great turtlebacked lorries swing into train formation . . . headlamps bore through the blue exhaust fumes . . . runners shout last minute orders to drivers, cupping hands to mouth against the roar of the motors . . . a flashlight swings in the old familiar highsign at the head of the column and, whether the weather is stormy or serene, out roll the squadrons of Sohio's great Tank-truck fleet with their cargoes of petroleum products for all of Ohio.

This scene occurs daily as 16 bulk trains radiate like spokes from the hub-cities. For Sohio products, to be useful to you, must be easy to get; to make them so is the chore of the Great Red Fleet . . . to move hundreds of thousands of gallons of gasoline daily to convenient way-points, so that in every corner of the state, Sohio products are always handy.

It is through the military snap and precision of the crack corps of a thousand workers who man Sohio's great Red Fleet in its operations 24 hours a day, that every part of the State is kept amply supplied with Sohio products. Their job is a big one, as indicated by the millions of miles rolled up annually by Sohio's fleet-on-wheels. That gives you an idea of the popularity and great demand for Sohio products.

Sohio's thousand pieces of finest modern automotive equipment, the largest mobilization of motorized rolling stock in Ohio, represents only one phase of Sohio's complete DISPATCH SYSTEM of transportation which includes barges and towboat facilities on the Ohio River, lake boat equipment on Lake Erie, pipe lines and railway equipment.

The smooth functioning of Sohio's DISPATCH SYSTEM is another one of those services that cause more and more Ohio motorists to turn in at the friendly Sohio sign. This familiar red-white-and-blue signal tells the location of not only Sohio heat-tempered Gasolines and Sohio all-weather Motor Oil but also of sturdy Atlas Tires, complete tire service and expert Lubrication second to none!

ATLAS TIRES go with the fleet

Atlas Tires are used exclusively by Sohio's Great Red Fleet.

In the eight-hundred-thousand miles rolled up by Sohio's heavy-duty tractor-trailer units employed in bulk distribution, only twice during the past year were these truck trains held up on the road because of tire failure.

And to protect you against road hazards and emergency cases, there is the triple guarantee that goes with every Atlas you purchase from Sohio, which provides for 12 months' passenger service, regardless of mileage.

Informants Assured Protection of Secrecy; All Police Get Pleas.

These questions in mind but with no attempt to answer them all directly.

List of Questions

The questions submitted prior to the 10 o'clock bulletin today follow:

1.—Is the guaranty of confidence which you pledge any and all informants to be construed as a promise of immunity, even to the kidnappers, should they give information leading to the baby's return?

2.—Have the police any information of a meeting of representatives of Col. Lindbergh and conspirators of Detroit gangsters in the Commodore hotel, New York, at noon today?

3.—Is it true that a member of the Lindbergh family left the home at 2 a. m. today and boarded a train at Hopewell or Princeton and did the trip have any connection with the kidnapping? If so, what?

4.—Have the police information about the prisoner who is said to have been identified in the Tombs by Morris Rosner and taken to the Lindbergh home?

5.—Has a report been received yet from Newark on the questioning of Dorothy Thompson, and what does it contain? Is she being held?

Bears Baby's Picture

The police circular being distributed throughout the United States, pledging confidential treatment of any information on the Lindbergh kidnapping, bears a picture of golden-haired Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

It is being printed in Washington, the state police announced, but it was not known whether some federal agency prepared it.

The appeal for information, regardless of the source, was interpreted by newspapers as an effort to clear the way for overtures from the kidnappers. Col. Lindbergh has promised he would not try to harm them if they entered negotiations, but no intimation of the police attitude has hitherto been given.

The statement announcing the circular said the police have not had "any communication with the kidnappers."

Suspected Plot Checked

The eleventh day of the great kidnapping mystery found police trying to check their suspicions of five men and a plot.

They surmised a trustworthy source revealed that the five men a kidnapping scheme as early as last November against the family and fortune of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The plot was abandoned at the time, it was believed, but whether it was picked up again and carried through was a question in the greatest kidnapping investigation in the country's history was trying to answer.

One of the suspects, the source of the disclosure said, is in custody on a charge unrelated to the kidnapping. He was identified as the inmate of the Tombs prison in New York who was brought here yesterday after Morris Rosner, expert fixer acting as Col. Lindbergh's undercover agent, interviewed him.

His name was as closely guarded as his person.

Another of the five men is believed to be in person elsewhere. Police want to find out where he is so they can determine whether the three who remained at liberty picked up the abandoned plot and carried it through by stealing Charles August Lindbergh, Jr. from his nursery crib March 1.

General Appeal Issued

A circular appealing to every one—underworld and respectability alike—to give information about the kidnapping under pledge of strict secrecy, was announced by Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police.

"In our earnest desire to accomplish the recovery of the baby," said the police announcement, "the police will welcome information of any kind leading to its return, regardless of the source."

"The identity of all people disclosing information leading to the recovery of the baby, whether the information be valuable or not, will be treated with confidence."

Rosner's activities were the most closely guarded of all the fitting figures working behind the screen enrolling the investigation Joseph Fishman, deputy commissioner of correction in New York, admitted Rosner visited the Tombs, but he added that "any statement now would kill the effectiveness of our work." Rosner is under indictment here on a charge of "stock killing."

"Lead" Points to Detroit

An attorney for Salvy Spitalo and Irving Bitz, two men with underworld contacts, who are trying to deal with the kidnappers on Col. Lindbergh's behalf, announced that they "have a lead." The attorney, Abraham Kossman, said they would go to Detroit in the pursuit of the lead soon as the liquor conspiracy trial in which they are the defendants in New York is ended.

The attorney would not tell the nature of the information passed along through underworld channels to the two men. He contented himself with saying they would go to Detroit, where the once-potent "purple gang" formerly gave police much trouble.

In Clare, Mich., Isiah Leebow, New York lawyer, who said he is counsel for Spitalo and Bitz, said he thought the case would "come to a head very soon."

Among the rumors that lacked confirmation today was one that said a conference was to take place in New York city some time during the day with representatives of the Lindberghs, Police Commissioner Mulrooney, "Detroit gangsters" participating. State police purported to have no knowledge of the rumored conference.

Dorothy Thompson, another suspect, Henry (Red) Johnson, was questioned several hours at Newark yesterday. It was learned, but she was not detained. Johnson, sailor who was friendly with the baby's nurse, Betty Gow, is held at Newark, facing a charge of entering the country illegally.

Other angles of the investigation were pursued without visible success. Search of ocean liners which left New York after the baby was stolen revealed nothing.

Owney Madden, paroled convict was reported to be making every effort to get in touch with the kidnappers and have the child returned. Madden is fighting an attempt by authorities to rescind the parole on which he is at liberty from Sing Sing.

"Business Policy Blamed in Kidnaping"

By The Associated Press LONDON, March 12.—"The Economist," important British financial journal, said today the kidnaping of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., was a result of American business policy.

"The inability of the police to find the slightest trace of the missing child," it said, "the appeals by Colonel Lindbergh to the underworld and his despairing recourse to the services of two well-known gangsters as potential intermediaries in the negotiations with undisclosed leaders of the supposed kidnaping racket—the whole extraordinary chronicle is a curious revealing commentary on one angle of social life in the United States."

"American big business," individualist by strong inclination and disposition, has stood consistently for weak and compliant administration. A nationwide organization of racketeers is the price which the public is now paying for that policy.

From the doctrines of "100 per cent pure" American capitalism, on the basis of unrestricted private enterprise, it is no very long step to Al Capone.

Missing Brooklyn Grocer Sought

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 12.—Police are searching for a former Brooklyn grocer, Dominick Peruo, who lives on the edge of the Lindbergh estate, but has not been seen since the night before the kidnapping. A 16-year-old son told state troopers Peruo went away with a relative and he hadn't heard from him.

G. P. Kerr Dies Suddenly in San Francisco, Calif.

Mrs. George Barnes of 138 Boone avenue has received word of the death of her brother, George Pringle Kerr, which occurred Thursday afternoon, in San Francisco, Calif. Although he had not been well Mr. Kerr's death was unexpected. Funeral services will be held and interment made in San Francisco.

Kerr of Los Angeles, Robert of San Francisco and James and William of Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, two nephews and two nieces, Harve Kerr of Los Angeles, and William Kerr, Mrs. William Cooper, and Miss Jean Kerr of Hamilton.

Hospital Trusty Takes "Holiday" to Visit Here; Held by Sheriff

A 65-year-old Marion county man who has been an inmate of the state hospital at Columbus four years was to be taken back to that institution today after an interesting two-day adventure.

His determination to have a look at new scenery after spending four years in the hospital, lately as a trusty, was short-lived, but he felt he had his "fixing."

Will, he got a nice automobile ride out of it, and got to see some of his old friends, he said, a sigh of resignation when informed yesterday afternoon that he would have to "go back."

The "nice automobile ride," it was learned, left a Columbus taxi driver holding the bag for $5.

The aged man started out to see the world Thursday afternoon. With a small amount of money in his pockets, he walked out of the hospital laundry where he had been working. He stayed all night in Columbus, and the next morning went to a nearby barber shop and was groomed for his sightseeing trip.

"Call a taxi for me," he ordered after getting a shave. The barber obliged.

"Drive me to Marion," he told the taxi driver. The driver misunderstood the order, and drove him to a Marion street in Columbus. Then the passenger explained that he wanted to come to Marion, O.

"That'll cost you $10," the driver replied.

"I don't care—you'll get your money," the passenger assured him. They started for this city, stopping in Delaware for a sandwich and some coffee for which the old man paid. After arriving in Marion, the man asked to be taken to a nearby village where he formerly resided. The passenger failed to raise the $10 fare, but gave the driver $2, which was all the money he had.

In the meantime, officials of the hospital notified the sheriff's office here, and a deputy went to the village to look for the escaped inmate. The deputy arrived one hour after the inmate, and brought him to Marion where he has since been held for the hospital authorities.

Refreshments were served. The class will meet May 13.

STATE TO WITNESS WET, DRY CONTEST

Taber in Senate Race as Dry; Hoover Delegation Virtually Certain.

Presidential picture, several delegates pledged to candidates other than Governor George White, the state's favorite son for that party's nomination. Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, and Peter Witt, Cleveland, won the favor of delegates in the Ninth, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Twenty-first and Twenty-second districts. The Witt delegates are expected to switch to Alfred E. Smith, the party's candidate four years ago.

While bidding for delegates, neither President Hoover nor Governor White entered the Presidential preference primary, which holds only empty honors for the winners since the popular vote is not binding upon the delegates. Three other Republican candidates, however, will vie for the state's popular choice.

They are Coxe, who led an army of jobless men to Washington 28 years ago; France, an outspoken foe of Hoover, polities, and Olin J. Ross, picturesque Columbus attorney and lecturer. The state's Democratic preferential vote will go to William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, governor of Oklahoma since he was the only Democrat to finish.

Taber in Race As Dry

Prohibition became an issue in the contest for the senatorial nomination with the entry of J. J. Taber, master of the national guard, who is backed by the Ohio Anti-Saloon league. He filed on the Republican ticket to oppose Attorney General Gilbert Betman, Charles A. Bracher, Dayton city commissioner, and Coxe, all favorable toward a change in the liquor law, and Mrs. Elizabeth C. T. Miller of Cleveland, who failed Democrat, another foe of prohibition.

Nine of the eleven Democratic candidates for congressmen—large are liberals as are seven of the Republican aspirants.

Eight Congressional Contests Listed

By The Associated Press COLUMBUS, O., March 12.—Eight of Ohio's 13 Republican members of congress must contest in the May primary for re-nomination. Four others are unpopular for re-nomination and one congressman Charles Brand of Urbana is retiring.

The nine Democrats are unpopular for re-nomination. Congressman Martin L. Sweeney of Cleveland, Democrat, elected last fall to fill the unexpired term of the late Congressman Charles A. Mooney will be returned in November. He has no opposition in the primary and the Republicans failed to qualify a candidate.

The Republican congressman who must campaign for re-nomination are: Wilbur M. Wayne of Toledo, C. Ellis Moore of Canton, Thomas A. McClintock of Ironton, Francis Seiberling of Akron, Frank Murphy of Steubenville, John G. Cooper of Youngstown, and Chester C. Bolton of Cleveland.

TRUAX WILL SEEK OHIO CONGRESS POST

Bucyrus Man Files as Candidate at Large; Marion Man in Race.

Charles V. Truax, former state director of agriculture and a former Bucyrus resident, filed his declaration of candidacy for congressmen-at-large in Columbus late Friday. He is a Democrat.

He announced that he would run on a liberal platform of rehabilitation for labor, business and industry. Two congressional races are to be elected in Ohio this year.

Charles E. Lukens, of 150 Franklin avenue, a Democrat, is a candidate for nomination as congressmen-at-large. The declaration of candidacy was filed with the secretary of state in Columbus.

VETS MAY GET TWO HISTORIES ON WAR

Members of 37th Division May Obtain Books.

Local veterans of the World war who were members of the 37th division are being asked to send their names and address to 37th Division A. E. E. association at 329 Stoneman building, Columbus, and they will be presented with a two volume history of the division and a booklet of maps pertaining to its activities during the war.

The books, it was announced by Judge Thomas H. Morrow of Cincinnati, president of the association, will be given to the veterans without cost, being a gift from the state of Ohio.

The 37th was the original national guard division of the state and a large number of its former members live in Marion county. The division trained at Camp Sheridan, Ala., from there it was transferred to Camp Lee, Va., where it was transported to France, landing late in the spring of 1918.

U. S. Army Chief of Staff Writes Local Vet's Post

A letter expressing his pleasure in the reorganization of the Dyer J. Bird Chapter, Ohio Rainbow Division Veterans association, has been received by Fred Millet, of 711 David street, secretary of the chapter, from General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the United States army.

The chapter was organized several weeks ago with 19 Rainbow veterans signing the charter. The charter list, Millet said today, will remain open for a time in order to permit any rainbow veterans to become members.

The chapter was named after Dyer J. Bird of Broadway, the first member of the division to die in active service was killed on March 1, 1918, as he was leaving a listening post. General Mac-

Arthur, who then was a colonel, was among those who attended the funeral services.

General MacArthur's letter follows: "I am delighted to learn that the Dyer J. Bird chapter of the Ohio Rainbow Division Veterans association has returned to an active status. The memory of Private Bird should always be sacred to his comrades of the 37th division. First of our division to die in action, he showed the way of sacrifice and heroism. It is my sincere hope that his name, worthy and brave, will be perpetuated by the association."

Woman, 80, Partly Blind, Dies in Rescue Attempt

By The Associated Press SCRANTON, Pa., March 12.—A little old lady, half blind and 80 years of age, gave up her life last night in an effort to rescue her four brothers, all over 70 years old, when fire started in their home on a farm two miles east of Scranton.

Three of the brothers also perished in the blaze, but a fourth, badly burned, rushed from the burning building unclothed and was saved.

The dead: Miss Mary Gyke, 80; Warren Gyke, 77; Newman Gyke, 74; and Jacob Gyke, 72.

Nelson Gyke, 75, who was the only occupant of the little farmhouse to escape, was carried on a bobbed over two miles of snow covered road, then placed in an automobile and removed to a hospital here. His condition is critical.

The Gyke family members had been in bed about an hour when Mary, who slept downstairs, was awakened by the crackling of the flames. Despite her age and poor eyesight, she struggled upstairs to where her brothers were asleep. Nelson rushed out without waiting to dress. The others tried to find their clothes and perished with their sister.

Authorities have been unable to ascertain the cause of the fire.

RACE FOR GOVERNOR IN PARTY SPOTLIGHT

Race for Chief State Office Holds C. O. P. Interest as Four Seek Nomination.

A Nixon of Dayton. Three Democrats seek the nomination. They are former Mayor R. P. Hastings of Lancaster, Thomas Kyer of Jackson and George S. Myers of Cleveland.

Republicans unopposed are State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy, State Treasurer Harry S. Day, John W. Bricker, seeking nomination for attorney general, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Supreme Court Judges Edward S. Matthews and Thomas A. Jones, Frank W. VETS MAY GET TWO HISTORIES ON WAR

Members of 37th Division May Obtain Books.

Local veterans of the World war who were members of the 37th division are being asked to send their names and address to 37th Division A. E. E. association at 329 Stoneman building, Columbus, and they will be presented with a two volume history of the division and a booklet of maps pertaining to its activities during the war.

U. S. Army Chief of Staff Writes Local Vet's Post

A letter expressing his pleasure in the reorganization of the Dyer J. Bird Chapter, Ohio Rainbow Division Veterans association, has been received by Fred Millet, of 711 David street, secretary of the chapter, from General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the United States army.

The chapter was organized several weeks ago with 19 Rainbow veterans signing the charter. The charter list, Millet said today, will remain open for a time in order to permit any rainbow veterans to become members.

The chapter was named after Dyer J. Bird of Broadway, the first member of the division to die in active service was killed on March 1, 1918, as he was leaving a listening post. General Mac-

Arthur, who then was a colonel, was among those who attended the funeral services.

Woman, 80, Partly Blind, Dies in Rescue Attempt

By The Associated Press SCRANTON, Pa., March 12.—A little old lady, half blind and 80 years of age, gave up her life last night in an effort to rescue her four brothers, all over 70 years old, when fire started in their home on a farm two miles east of Scranton.

Three of the brothers also perished in the blaze, but a fourth, badly burned, rushed from the burning building unclothed and was saved.

The dead: Miss Mary Gyke, 80; Warren Gyke, 77; Newman Gyke, 74; and Jacob Gyke, 72.

Nelson Gyke, 75, who was the only occupant of the little farmhouse to escape, was carried on a bobbed over two miles of snow covered road, then placed in an automobile and removed to a hospital here. His condition is critical.

The Gyke family members had been in bed about an hour when Mary, who slept downstairs, was awakened by the crackling of the flames. Despite her age and poor eyesight, she struggled upstairs to where her brothers were asleep. Nelson rushed out without waiting to dress. The others tried to find their clothes and perished with their sister.

Authorities have been unable to ascertain the cause of the fire.

KITTY FREW

by JANE ABBOTT

Copyright—Jane Abbott.

She kissed him, and pushed him laughing out of the room. The "committee" met again the following day and the next. "I hate like fury leaving you like this, Kit. I'd make you go along only we agreed that we get more done if no one sits in. Marge even threw Red out, today. After we get started there won't be so much to do," Gar was very important. He told Kitty how rapidly their plans were taking shape. Somers was just the man—"funny looking duck but all to business. I'm going down with him and Marge tomorrow to look over that barn. You're sure you're not too lonesome, sweet?" She told him she wasn't too lonesome. Perhaps, when they got into their first play she could help, some way.

But when he left her to go with Marge to look over the barn which they proposed to transform into a little theater she could not make herself take up any of the small occupations with which she had filled her time while Gar was away from her.

Her old bewilderment had come back to her, she had an unhappy premonition of things going wrong the course of which she could not stay. She was not helping Gar see life with a man's eyes. She thought of David; if she could talk to him he might help her—

At 6 o'clock Gar telephoned that he would not be home for dinner. They'd found the barn exactly what they wanted but they'd got to act quickly to get it—Marge was having the "committee" at her house for dinner, to put it through. "I'll be home early, Kit."

She put the telephone down with a sharp resentment—no such much at Gar as at Marge. Crosby Marge was high-handed, appropriating Gar like this. But Gar would not see it so. Once he had laughed at Kitty when she said, Marge didn't seem to realize he was married to her. "Oh, that cleave unto one another is old-fashioned, Kit!" one another that the prospect of an evening alone, shut up in her room was intolerable. If she could find David! She took up the telephone book to hunt out his name.

While she was fingering the receiver, a knock came at her door. Pounded, perhaps, with some remedy for her head—

But it was not Pound. Carol stood on the threshold. Kitty tried to keep from her well-come any sign of surprise and apprehension. But she knew from the unpleasantness of Carol's expression that this visit was no tardy gesture of sisterliness. "I'm so glad you came up, Carol. My head ached—I didn't feel like eating any dinner. Pound brought me a little something. Sit down—"

Kitty indicated a chair. Carol ignored the invitation. She was walking idly about the room looking at Gar's photographs, until her survey reached the picture of Marge. Crosby. She picked that up, frowned at it and put it back with a little bang. Then she swung around to Kitty.

"Gar leaves you alone like this pretty often, doesn't he?" Kitty shrank inwardly from an inference in Carol's tone but she answered pleasantly, even casually.

"Just now. He's busy with the committee meetings of the play. When they get started of course I can help, too, in some way. I don't mind for I have ever so many things to do here."

But she flushed, she knew her words fell lamentably short of convincing. Carol had found her doing nothing perhaps Carol had seen that she'd been crying.

Carol laughed. But her eyes as she faced Kitty were hard.

"Oh, you're snippy. Committee meetings—he's just tagging Marge Crosby. It's always been like that. Let Marge crook her little finger and Gar runs to her. If I were you I'd stick with them. If only to study Marge's technique. It'd help you. You've got a lot to learn."

Kitty recoiled from the other's bluntness though she answered steadily enough, managing even a little smile.

"Don't put it like that, Carol. I'm not afraid of Marge or her technique, or of any one. It's kind of you to be concerned, but really, I'm not jealous."

"Oh, kind! Carol flung out her hands. "I'm not trying to be kind. I don't care what happens to Gar or to you or to any one, for that matter. I have my own reasons for warning you. And while I'm about it I'll say a little more. You're sitting on a trap and it isn't a pretty one, either. Gar always gets what he wants—if he plays around long enough with Marge he may see that he can have her and her money and position without much trouble."

Rural Setting for O'Brien Novel

THE Irish countryside is the setting for Kate O'Brien's novel, "Without My Cloak." The Considine are tightly knit in family life and in business but the strongest line of the family runs through "Honest John," his son Anthony and in turn Anthony's son, Dennis. In Dennis appears most forcefully the family's zest for hard living and deep emotions.

Rinehart Mystery Story Holds Interest

OF interest to readers of mystery stories is Mary Roberts Rinehart's story, "Miss Pinkerton," which centers around the murder of the worthless young Herbert Wynn. At times all things point to a large insurance is dependent upon the cause of the death, a settlement that will make easy the few remaining years of old Juliet Mitchell's life. The old Mitchell mansion, fast decaying stronghold of a faded gentility, affords an admirable background for the sinister unrolling of the story.

Something To Do for Children

"SOMETHING to Do" is an interesting "busy book" written by Lucella Lyons describing 62 different things that children can do from making bookmarks for valentines to a diningroom for miles on through to what one summer may be a perfectly terrible afternoon of diving old socks in a primitive industrial adventure. The book is published by Alfred A. Knopf.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Again Finds Unmistakable Evidence That the Flame of Hugh's Old Devotion for Her Has Never Faded Out.

WHETHER Katherine's request was based upon my need of something to do to make me forget the departure of the children, whether I really was needed in my room, I never have been determined; but nothing has so effectively jolted me as my absorption in the departmental cavalcade as her commission to Hugh Grantland in caring for the two sick men.

"Where's Dicky?" I thought for a moment, but I had not uttered the words, but the next instant I realized thankfully that I had been thinking of him.

only in my brain had that uneasy query sounded. I wondered if Katherine had surmised what question I was mentally asking, when she abruptly pushed in her rapid walk toward the kitchen and, turning, spoke apologetically.

Katherine Makes a Promise. "I wouldn't ask you if I could manage any other way," she said, but as you can imagine, we are rather short-handed with Harry away, and Dicky has gone down to the hospital to see about having my first patient taken down there. He probably won't be back for an hour, so I simply have to call on you."

I pulled myself together and put aside my qualms. I also resolved to toss subterfuge away when talking to Katherine. She, as well as Lillian, could conjugate my moods and tenets better than I could myself.

"That's my only reason for existence, in the present emergency," I told her, smiling. "Mother Graham is taking care of Faith, and Lillian has removed all my other responsibilities, so I am at your service. But there is one thing I want you to do for me. You probably can guess what it is, for you know that Dicky—"

"Sees red whenever Hugh is within a mile of you," she interrupted, with a kindly grin, as I hesitated. "Yes, darling, I know all about it, and I'll promise to get you out of the trenches before Christmas. I'll relieve you long before there's a chance of Dicky getting back, so run along now, and don't look so fearful. Hugh won't eat you, although he'd probably like to."

She wrinkled her nose at me and turned back again towards the kitchen, while I, feeling a little as if I were going to my execution went on to the library.

The little study, flooded with sunlight, held such homely peace and cheerfulness that I found it difficult to credit the remembrance of the tense, melodramatic scene which I had witnessed there but a few hours before, when Lee Chow, investigating the contents of Marion's mysterious lock box, had received into his finger the poison of a concealed dart.

Joining Hugh Grantland. The library adjoining was equally peaceful, and the two sick men appeared to be sleeping. In the hurried half hour following the collapse of Lee Chow, his old henchman, convalescing from wounds received at the hands of his murderous countrymen while they were besieging the farmhouse, had been transferred to the larger library.

Hugh was sitting in a big chair between the two rooms, patiently trying to perform the impossible feat of keeping his eyes focused upon both patients at the same time. Katherine had told me not to knock, and as the door swung open he sprang to his feet and came across the room to meet me.

He had replaced his shoes with his moccasins, and I noticed that his footstools were as noiseless as those of any Indian. He did not give me any signal for silence, but I made my voice an almost inaudible murmur.

"Katherine asked me to come in to 'help you,' I said, looking up at him, and again I felt as if candles had suddenly been lighted far back in his eyes.

"Unfortunately, I do not need any help just now," he said, smiling. "The men are both sleeping. If Lee Chow's condition may be called sleep I hope it is only that. I haven't anything to do except watch, but—will you have to go away because of that?"

A Sound of Warning. Something indefinable in his voice and manner rang a little bell of warning deep in my heart. He did not know it himself, but I was afraid that he was not going to be able to preserve the calm, brotherly attitude with which he had been able for years to camouflage his real feeling for me. Confused, apprehensive, I parried his question perversely.

"I am afraid I have no choice," I said hurriedly. "Katherine told me I must come here and stay until she came back, and you know her orders must be obeyed."

TOLEDO MAN TRAIN VICTIM

Killed Instantly at Bucyrus
Pennsylvania Railroad Crossing.

Special to The Star
BUCYRUS, March 12.—R. E. Ballmer of Toledo, salesman for Hobart Brothers Co. of Troy, O., was instantly killed Friday afternoon when his car was struck by a west bound Pennsylvania train at the Whetstone street crossing. Portions of the wrecked car, which was reduced to splinters and twisted steel, were carried down the track for 300 yards where the train was stopped. The body of the victim was thrown down the embankment to the south of the track. The body was crushed and badly mangled. Mr. Ballmer was enroute to the Shunk Manufacturing Co., one block east of the crossing, for a business call. The body was removed to the Henderson and Lutz funeral home and relatives at Toledo were immediately notified.

For County Commissioner

TO MY MANY FRIENDS IN MARION AND MARION COUNTY, GREETING:
I am a candidate for County Commissioner on the Republican ticket. My home is at 598 Mt. Vernon avenue, but I own and operate a farm in Richland Township. I have lived in Marion County all my life and am familiar with the problems of the farmer as well as the man who lives in the city. I have been a real estate dealer in the city of Marion a number of years and know the value of real estate and the income received and what should be received. People are losing their homes because of high taxes and unnecessary governmental expense. If the people of Marion County see their way clear to vote for me at the primaries, and if I am elected to the office, I pledge my word to the operation of the County Government in a business-like manner. Your support at the primaries will be appreciated.

He's Oldest Dunkirk Man

J. A. ORTH

DUNKIRK, March 12.—Having passed the ninety-sixth milestone in life, J. A. Orth, Civil War veteran, is Dunkirk's oldest resident. Age means little to this well-known resident. He spent the last three weeks sawing wood with a hand saw. Each spring finds him in the tops of trees, giving them their annual trimming. He also is active in business and public affairs. All but eight weeks of his life have been spent in Hardin county. His parents moved here by ox-cart when he was eight weeks old. He was born near Wooster. Orth celebrated his ninety-sixth anniversary Feb. 26.

ASSISTANT TO AID REVENUE COLLECTOR

Chance Beach of Columbus will arrive in Marion Monday morning to assist M. C. Grant, internal revenue collector, who has been assisting residents of Marion and vicinity in the preparation of personal and corporation income tax reports. Persons required by law to file reports should remember that Tuesday at midnight is the deadline for making them. Grant said today.

The temporary office set up in the law library on the third floor of the courthouse for the revenue collector will be open until 8 p. m. Monday, and until midnight Tuesday.

CONTEST PLANNED AT JOINT MEETING

The Marion City and the Florence Branches of the W. C. T. U. held a joint meeting last night at the First United Brethren church community house.

Bernard Brooks was in charge of the meeting, which opened with singing "America." Robert Halderman conducted devotions, after which Mrs. Mary Jennings, county W. C. T. U. president, offered prayer.

The branches decided to have a contest for new members. The contest will close June 6. Mrs. Zoe Davis read a paper, "Why Belong to the W. C. T. U." Refreshments and a social hour followed.

Play at 11 Tables.

Eleven tables were filled for cards at the card party sponsored by members of the Degree of Pocahontas and Red Men's lodge last night in the lodge hall. ## The Stars Say—

For Sunday, March 13.

SUNDAY'S horoscope favors all affairs of a literary, cultural, social and ecclesiastical nature which will engage the attention to the neglect of all other matters, and profitably, although there is a slight loophole for some loss through carelessness or extravagance. Elders may confer benefits or assistance.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of liveliness, advancement and profit through their own application, diligence and perseverance, as well as their steadfastness and fidelity to elderly persons and institutions. Personal associations will also be pleasant and profitable, but beware small losses. A child born on this day should be brilliant and versatile as well as hard working, faithful and persistent, traits assuring substantial favors and recognition of elders.

For Monday, March 14.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast shows some activity and advantages with possible change or journey, but these may be accompanied by perils through rash, impulsive and violent conduct as well as through subtle attacks, treachery or fraud. Lack of restraint and control may seriously complicate matters and precipitate dangers. But the personal nature may favor self-control, being altruistic and friendly.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year which may be greatly affected by the personal conduct and self-control. There will be favorable opportunities and possible change, but a tendency to rash and impulsive if not violent actions may offset benefits, although the personal tendency will be toward kindness and good fellowship. Guard tongue and temper and let the better impulses prevail. A child born on this day should be kindly, affectionate and emotional with trends toward ungovernable speech and acts at times. Early discipline and training should curb this menacing temperament.

Theater News and Reviews

"THE PRIMROSE PATH" TO SHOW AT OHIO; DIETRICH AT PALACE

Juvenile delinquency and the easy road responsible for many crimes, provided the theme of "The Primrose Path," which will be at the Ohio four days, starting Sunday. The producers who made "The Road to Ruin," produced this picture.

Helen Foster plays the leading role, but down the list of the cast, the name of Mary Carr is found. Mary Carr was at one time on the top of the heap in the motion picture world. Her portrayal of the mother in "Over the Hill," was a classic of its day. In the last few years she has had few, if any roles and this is one of the few pictures her legions of devoted fans have been given the opportunity to see her enact one of her famous "mother" roles.

Others in the cast are John Darrow, Dorothy Granger, Lane Chandler, DeWitt Jennings, Virginia Pearson and Julia Swayne Gordon.

TIMELY PICTURE COMING TO PALACE

Paramount is the first studio to take advantage of the Chinese-Japanese conflict as background material for a picture. They have made the background of "Shanghai Express" starring Marlene Dietrich, a train trip from Peking to Shanghai, and the laid off the action on the train. The picture will show at the Palace Sunday through Tuesday.

Critics have been enthusiastic about the work of Marlene Dietrich and the entire cast, and have welcomed "Shanghai Express" as a departure from the usual run of "big" pictures.

The cast sparkles with such names as Clive Brook, Anna May Wong, Warner Oland, Eugene Pallette, Lawrence Grant, Louise Closser Hale, Gustav von Seyffertitz and Emilie Chautard.

The picture was directed by Josef von Sternberg.

DOUBLE BILL AT STATE

The grid game between the University of Southern California and State Dents will be shown at the State theater Sunday and Monday, on a double bill with "Young Donovan's Kid." Richard Dix and Jackie Cooper made an excellent picture when they made "Young Donovan's Kid." It is the touching story of the regeneration of a gangster through the love and admiration of a small girl.

"THE BIG TIMER" TO SHOW AT MARION

Ben Lyon stars in "The Big Timer," which will show at the Marion Sunday through Tuesday. This is story of youth and the saving of "wild oats."

Constance Cummings and Thelma Todd are in the leading feminine roles. Miss Todd is credited by studio gossip as being the charming reason that Ronald Colman is going to England to obtain a divorce from his wife, a non-professional.

GREENWOOD P. T. A. MEETS AT SCHOOL

Social Hour and Tea Features Council Session.

A social hour and tea followed the program presented at the meeting of the Greenwood Parent-Teacher council yesterday afternoon at the school building. During the business session a collection was taken for the free dispensary at the city hospital and announcement was made of the program to be presented by the East Side Mother Singers April 15 at Euclid Junior High school.

The school chorus sang two numbers, "The Boatman's Song" and "Oh, Worship the King," which they sang at the Marion elisteddoff and Betty Creviston contributed a lullaby which she sang at the elisteddoff. Mrs. A. H. Koons entertained with two accordion numbers, "Under the Double Eagle," Sousa, and "Minuet in G." Beethoven. Round table discussions followed five-minute talks by Mrs. Roy Gottschall on "Reading," Mrs. Walter Sheeley on "Music," Mrs. Chester C. Roberts on "Whole-some Recreation at Home," and Mrs. Nellie Irey on "Obedience." Mrs. Nellie Irey and Mrs. Pauline Lambert presided at the tea table during the social hour. The next meeting will be April 5.

FRATERNITY TO BID FOR '33 CONVENTION

Local Sigma Alpha Epsilon
Group To Ask for Meeting Here.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon alumni of three states will be invited to hold their 1933 province convention in Marion. Plans to submit this city's bid at the 1932 convention in Akron March 18 and 19 were discussed last night when the local alumni association of the fraternity met at Hotel Harding for its annual meeting.

The convention, if granted to this city, would bring approximately 400 persons here for a two-day session. A decision on the 1933 meeting place will not be made at the Akron meeting, but will be reached by the board of directors next spring. Marion's invitation, however, will be extended at the Akron meeting by Charles F. Merkel and Arthur C. Harris, delegates.

Arthur Harris of Marion was elected president, H. H. Parcher of Delaware, vice president, and E. G. Siefert of Marion, secretary.

After a discussion on "Changing Hell Week to Probation Week," the association last night instructed its candidates to vote at the province convention as opposed to padding and other noxious practices common to "hell week" the week before initiation to a college fraternity.

Plans for semi-monthly dinner meetings of the local association, which is made up of members in Marion and nearby cities and villages, were made last night. The first of these will be held at Hotel Harding March 25.
